CommonSenseMedia.org is a FREE, non-profit organisation that believes in promoting digital safety and providing trustworthy information to transform wired kids into responsible digital citizens.

It is easy to create a FREE account to access the lessons and materials for teaching a wide range of digital literacies including: Internet safety, Privacy and Security, Cyberbullying, Creative Commons and Copyright and many more.

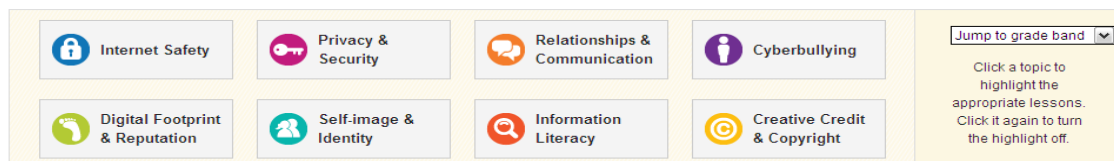

The screenshot shows the CommonSenseMedia.org website. At the top left is the logo "common sense media". To the right, there is a user greeting "Hi, mangobook" and links for "My Account", "My Favorites", and "Sign Out". A search bar is located on the right with the text "search our site" and a magnifying glass icon. Below the header is a navigation bar with links: "Home", "Reviews", "Top Picks", "Best for Learning" (marked BETA), "Videos", "Blog" (marked NEW), "Educators", "About Us", and "Donate". A dropdown menu is open over the "Educators" link, listing: "Our Programs", "K-12 Curriculum" (highlighted in green), "Educate Families", "Prof. Development", "Educator Blog", "Curriculum Toolkits", "Scope & Sequence", and "Digital Passport". Below the navigation bar, there is an article preview titled "When Good Role Models Go Bad" with a sub-headline "If your kid loves Disney star Selena Gomez, you may need to address her recent 'bad girl' transformation." and a red button that says "our parenting expert advises". To the right of the article is a large image of two young girls riding scooters. Below the image are three small circular navigation icons.

The site provides a scope and sequence for the digital skills students require to be savvy consumers of digital media.

Scope & Sequence

Use our new Scope & Sequence tool to find the lessons that are just right for your classroom. These cross-curricular units spiral to address digital literacy and citizenship topics in an age appropriate way. Browse by grade band or click a category to highlight the lessons that address that topic. You can download a PDF of the new Scope & Sequence here. Read more about the recent updates to the curriculum in our blog.

Also, take a look at the definitions of our 8 categories in our Curriculum Overview. And for reference, you can access the former Scope & Sequence here.

The screenshot shows the "Scope & Sequence" tool interface. It features a grid of eight category buttons, each with an icon and text: "Internet Safety" (lock icon), "Privacy & Security" (key icon), "Relationships & Communication" (speech bubbles icon), "Cyberbullying" (person with speech bubble icon), "Digital Footprint & Reputation" (footprint icon), "Self-image & Identity" (person icon), "Information Literacy" (megaphone icon), and "Creative Credit & Copyright" (copyright symbol icon). To the right of the grid is a "Jump to grade band" dropdown menu. Below the dropdown menu is a text box that says: "Click a topic to highlight the appropriate lessons. Click it again to turn the highlight off."

Grades K - 2

Unit	Category	Title	Description
1		Going Places Safety	Students learn that they can go to exciting places online, but they need to follow certain rules to remain safe.

This site also provides reviews of movies, applications, games, tv, books and music.

The screenshot shows the Common Sense Media website interface. At the top, there is a search bar and navigation links like 'Hi, mangobook', 'My Account', 'My Favorites', and 'Sign Out'. Below the navigation bar, the 'Reviews' section is active. The main content area features a review for the movie 'Life of Pi'. It includes a movie poster, a play button, and a summary: 'Common Sense Media says: Beautiful, emotional, intense story of faith and friendship.' The review is categorized as 'PG' and 'Drama' from 2012. It shows an age rating of 12 and a quality rating of 4 stars. There are also sections for 'Parents say' (36 reviews, 12 age rating, 5 stars quality) and 'Kids say' (32 reviews, 10 age rating, 5 stars quality). Below the review, there are tabs for 'What parents need to know', 'User reviews', and 'Movie details'. The 'User reviews' tab is selected, showing a review by Shivom Oza, a parent, dated November 20, 2012, with a 12 age rating and 5 stars quality. A video review player is also visible on the right side.

Parents can access information to help them decide what media is appropriate for their children. It also provides questions and scripts to encourage dialogue between parents, educators and children.

The screenshot shows the 'Parent Media and Technology Education Program' page. It features a 'resources' sidebar with links to 'Program materials' (Family media agreements, Parent workshops, Parent surveys, Resources in Spanish, Order Materials on a Flash Drive) and 'Parent media education topics' (Cyberbullying & online relationships, Internet safety, Online privacy & security, Cell phones & digital communications, Social networking & community, Gaming & online worlds). The main content area has a header 'Engage parents on topics they really care about' and a paragraph: 'Parents are very concerned about their children's digital lives. Our FREE Parent Media and Technology Education Program lets you become their go-to advisor on this hot topic. With this program, Common Sense Media provides you with online access to videos, discussion guides'. There are two images: one of a child using a smartphone and another of a woman wearing headphones talking to a child.
